The following file types can be applied:

- A V2C file contains a license update from your software vendor, or a firmware update for your Sentinel HL keys.
- An H2R file contains a detached license.
- An R2H file contains a cancelled detached license (to be re-attached to its original key).
- An H2H file contains a rehosted protection key.
- An ID file contains the identifiers of the Sentinel License Manager on a remote machine (occasionally required for creating a detached license).
- An ALP file contains an Admin Control Center Language Pack.

You know, I did have one of those too, but my mom broke it in half and I'm afraid that a) I'll ruin it by putting a hot tub in it and b) I'll break it if I use it. So no pool. I'd still be using it, though. That and a bicycle make the best swim suit. Yeah, I'd say both pool and jacuzzi are pretty much on par as far as jacuzziing is concerned. As far as swimming in a pool goes, a jacuzzi makes for a much nicer swimming experience. And if I had a pool, I'd just use a jacuzzi, because I wouldn't be able to climb out and I'd likely burn up in it. jazzman1 wrote:I'd still be using it, though. That and a bicycle make the best swim suit. I remember the bicycle swimsuit. That was basically a shirt over a swim suit with a big, pretty, sash around the waist. It was summer of '88. I was swimming with the bicycle swim suit in my imagination... I really should make my parents get me a jacuzzi instead. As for pools, I like swimming in the one in the backyard better. That one has a little bridge and steps, as well as a ladder, and it's not very big so I never have to stand there freezing my you know what off with a couple of towel-wielding terrors. I have a jacuzzi at work. I think I have to pump it, though. I'm pretty sure the men's room's down the hall has a compressor. Okay, I have the barometer and the weather dial too. So we can check the barometer when it's actually, you know, raining outside, but otherwise, I don't need it. Since it's been over a year since I've been here, I've forgotten how time really works here. So, I'm not sure. But I was here for all of February and March. I think I was home in May. So, it's June now 82157476af
